CAPTURED NAZI SHIP SCUTTLED

Mimi Horn Burned After Intercepted by British in Northern Waters.

By The Associated Press

LONDON April 2 — The British admiralty announced today that the German freighter Mimi Horn out of Curacao Netherlands West Indies had been intercepted in northern waters by British men of war and then was fired and scuttled by her own crew

The admiralty announcement said the sinking brought to 303,946 tons German's merchant ship losses by capture and sinking The Mimi Horn whose port of registry was Hamburg was a 4,007 ton vessel

Losses to allied and neutral shipping for the week ending last Sunday midnight meanwhile were reported at 13,901 tons the fourth lowest weekly figure since the start of the war and the lowest since the first week of 1940

Convoy Attacks Dangerous

An informed source laid the decrease in allied and neutral shipping losses to the work of British minesweepers and to the fact that German submarines think it unwise to attack convoys

One of the vessels included in the list of losses for the week was the 5,742 ton British tanker Daghestan which sank after being bombed by German aircraft off the north east coast of Scotland

The 5,439-ton freighter Barnhill which was bombed and set on fire the preceding week also is regarded now as a total loss

The sinking of a German submarine which had torpedoed a neutral ship in convoy some weeks ago was described in an eye witness account made public through the ministry of information

FLOOD SWEEPS OHIO VALLEY

High Waters Surging Down River from Stricken Pennsylvania.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI April 2 — Flood waters which unleashed their fury in the east surged menacingly down the Ohio today but the river was expected to reach an early crest in this district before causing further damage

Although still rising at the rate of three tenths of a foot an hour the water was mostly within its dikes

After flooding a section of Pittsburgh before reaching a crest the river rose to 36 feet in Steubenville one foot above the flood stage and then started to recede

Roads Under Water

Lowland roads in eastern Ohio were under water including state route 7 north of Steubenville and at Mingo Junction Marietta merchants fearful of flood waters moved stocks as the river swelled toward a predicted 35 feet

Danger diminished at Cincinnati with word of the upstream crests Unless there are further rains we don't expect the river to reach flood stage here John Van Orsdall weather observer said

The river was slightly over 13 feet here but the flood stage at Cincinnati throughout most of this section and at Huntington W Va is over the 50 foot mark

The weather bureau expected a crest here of 45 feet Thursday but receding water upstream indicated to rivermen that the peak might be sooner

CHARGES ARMY OFFICERS WORK WITH PELLEY

Congressman Testifies Against Silver Shirt Leader Before Dies Committee

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 2—Representative Dickstein Democrat of New York charged before the Dies committee today that William Dudley Pelley head of the Legion of Silver Shirts had been tied up with a number of army officers in a fascistic effort to overrun the government of the United States

The New Yorker vice chairman of a former house investigation of un-American activities appeared voluntarily before the present investigating group to declare

I charge that he was tied up with a number of army officers and I have evidence to prove it

Describing Pelley Asheville N C publisher was a Jew baiter and a self styled American fuehrer who had spread more hate than anyone else in this country Dickstein asserted Pelley's aim was to replace the present United States government with one patterned after the Hitler regime in Germany

Moseley's Inspiration

I charge Pelley with being a motivating force behind the fascistic desire on the part of army men like General Moseley to lead a revolt backed by army men against the government he said in a formal statement to the committee

(Major General George Van Horn Moseley U S A retired was described by the Dies committee last year as being active in connection with various so called patriotic organizations He testified about his activities before the committee)

Dickstein had Representative Kramer Democrat of California identify documents which he said had been taken from Pelley's files at Asheville several years ago And he had with him at the hearing to testify against Pelley blond Miss Dorothy Waring of New York who said she had been a special agent for the former investigating committee and was now a journalist

Dickstein said Pelley had told investigators that the time would come when Jews would be shot down in the country

In Detroit he said the publisher had worked with a Captain Rubley … then was using armories and … to train Silver Rangers for the Silver Shirts

In Cleveland Dickstein continued his organizers met with army officers This same procedure worked in most of the larger cities of the country In Oklahoma a ranger division was established whose members were uniformed and armed In California a Silver Shirt rifle club was he led by Willard Kemp

Dickstein said Pelley had estimated the Silver Shirts numbered 3,000,000 at one time but that they were estimated by others to number only 75,000

He (Pelley) was well acquainted with the background of the organization of the Black Legion Dickstein said having known Mr Effinger in Lima Ohio and Dr Sheppard the chief organizer His influence in hundreds of smaller Fascist American organizations is well known among these the Crusaders for America Chattanooga Tenn Reverend Winrod's group of Kansas the Christian mobilizers of New York and the Christian Front groups throughout the country

Marion District To Escape Cut in WPA

George Neffner Is Named To Succeed Earl Griffith

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O April 2—George M Neffner became Ohio's secretary of state today and the Republican organization announced it would seek to nominate him for the office at the May 14 primary by getting voters to write his name on the ballot

Neffner was sworn in three hours after Gov Bricker appointed him to succeed the late Earl Griffith until the Nov 5 election

Ed D Schorr state Republican chairman asserted that the state organization would conduct a concerted campaign to nominate Neffner over Edward J Hummel of Cincinnati only other Republican candidate for secretary of state Griffith had been a candidate for renomination

Neffner's name cannot be printed on the ballot because the deadline for candidacies was March 15 No organization sponsored statewide write in campaign has ever been conducted in Ohio

Hummel a candidate for office the last 14 years has been at odds with the state organization

Griffith's Name Off Ballot

Griffith's name will be stricken from the ballot at the specific request of his widow

A short term secretary of state to serve until Jan 1 will be selected at the Nov 5 election There will be no special primary to nominate short term candidates and details for electing the short term official have not been completed

Governor Bricker said he was happy to make the promotion because he has known Neffner as an able efficient and conscientious public servant for many years and because of his broad training in the duties of the office

No one more sincerely regrets the passing of Mr Griffith than I do Neffner commented after his appointment I always looked forward with pleasure to cooperating with him in the success of his administration In now taking over the duties of the office where he was compelled to lay them down as a tribute to him I will not disturb the office organization which he set up I will try to serve the public sincerely

Ohio Republicans are awaiting the official go signal for an unprecedented campaign to write in Neffner's name for the Republican nomination

Some party leaders frankly admitted that such a drive would be a … undertaking … were confident that the … would be equal to the task

Others … were doubtful but as many as 150,000 voters would be persuaded to write Neffner's name on the ballot instead of marking the customary X beside the name of Edward J Hummel of Cincinnati

The write in campaign proposal will be submitted to the party's state central committee late today for final approval

Neffner a Republican from New Vienna has been chief statistician in the secretary of state's office for 10 years serving under two Democrats and two Republicans

SUPT. HUDSON REVIEWS WORK

Outlines Record During Service in Marion at Meeting of School Board

A statement reviewing his record here and defending it against what he said he regards as criticism by a member of the board of education was made by Supt C A Hudson in the monthly meeting of the board yesterday afternoon at the administration building

Board member Dr R T Morgan at the March meeting when the board members discussed the qualifications they sought in a successor to Mr Hudson, stated that in his opinion the principal qualification would be An honest to God school man who will come in and go to work

Mr Hudson said in yesterday's meeting that he felt this remark was aimed at him personally and went on to defend his record as head of the city schools for nearly six years Mr Hudson had excused himself from the March meeting when selection of his successor came up for discussion He said he first knew of the statement when it was published in an account of the board meeting

Makes No Comment

When Mr Hudson had finished his review yesterday Dr Morgan said I have nothing to say just at this time He said he had not made the statement for publication and was surprised when it appeared in print I meant no reflection on you Dr Morgan told Mr Hudson

Dr Morgan was one of three board members who in January voted that the present board reaffirm action taken by the 1939 board accepting Mr Hudson's resignation effective in June

Hunt for a successor is in progress but at yesterday's meeting the matter was not discussed President Harry J Barnhart said the question is still up in the air and that for the present he had nothing to say

When the board adjourned it was at the call of the president, relative to progress of the search for a new superintendent

There hasn't been any reason given yet any constructive reason to the public as to what is wrong with the administration Superintendent Hudson said in launching his statement

Last spring it was said that the schools had not made the progress they should How can they when the board opposes what seems to be the professional program when that program is misinterpreted and thwarted?

Distributes Report

At this point Mr Hudson distributed to the board copies of a three page summary of the achievements in the administration and supervision of the city schools which he mailed a year ago this month to the various board members At that time he explained he had not made the report public since he felt it was a matter for the board's attention He said he was redistributing the summary yesterday because of the presence of the two new members Douglas Torrance and Dr F L Thomas

In the summary the superintendent listed 15 accomplishments and six items under Some Things Yet To Be Done Briefly the achievements in the Employment List Already Under 17,000 Quota, Director Says.

REPORTS JOB BOOST

Federal Funds on Hand, But New Projects Are Needed.

Marion city and county and nearby communities will not be affected by the new nationwide reduction in WPA programs announced yesterday, James Kelly district WPA director, reported today from his office in Columbus

While approximately 5,000 workers in the state are to be dropped from the WPA rolls this month the reduction will not affect any communities in District Six which includes Marion because the present employment figure is lower than the new quota set in the nationwide retrenchment program Mr Kelly said

The nationwide reduction amounts to 201,000 persons or nearly 10 per cent of the total on WPA rolls The Associated Press reported today

Reports Upturn

Pointing out that the number of persons certified for WPA jobs has been greatly reduced here in recent months due to an upturn in private employment, Mr Kelly explained that it will be possible for the district office to approve sufficient projects for the county to take care of those now working Under the new reduction program, the district's quota has been reduced from 17,316 to 17,000 men but the new figure is still several hundred higher than the number now working on WPA projects in the district he said

At present there are 1,061 men and women certified for WPA employment in the Marion city and county which is approximately 38 per cent less than 1,545 certified a year ago, he reported Of those now certified 792 are now assigned to projects whereas 269 are on the waiting list A year ago there were 1,193 men and women working and 452 on the waiting list

Mr Kelly emphasized however, that the fact that the district's funds are adequate for financing the federal government's share of WPA projects it does not necessarily mean that there will not be a reduction in WPA employment here Since it is necessary for the city and county governments to plan the projects and make arrangements to finance 25 per cent of the total cost, the operation of WPA projects depends largely upon the local need and the ability of local governments to meet their share of the cost he said

Projects Near End

He estimated that projects employing some 160 workers in the county will be completed in about two weeks and that it will be necessary to lay off these workers unless the city and county are able to finance their share of new projects However, city and county officials expressed the opinion today that new projects will be opened for these workers

Of the 792 workers now assigned to projects in the county,

Tear Gas Bombs Are Thrown Into Attic After Harry's Warning Goes Unheeded.

AT MY father's question, I smiled involuntarily as the remembrance of a boyish escapade of Junior's and Roderick's came back to me.

"When you're in the attic, you can hear perfectly anything shouted from my room or from the kitchen," I said. "I know that, because of an experiment Junior and Roderick once made. Their screaming challenges were audible all over the house and filled the attic with uproar."

"Good," my father said. "Harry, give that police whistle to your wife. Then open those two hall windows which are nearest the ladders, and afterward come back here."

Without a word the big man handed a police whistle to Lillian, and then, going into the hall, opened the windows as my father had directed. When he came back, my father spoke tersely:

"Richard already knows that when the police whistle sounds, the men are to break the windows and throw in the tear gas," he said. "So be ready, Lillian, to blow the whistle the second you get the signal. Now, Harry, go to that speaking tube and say the things on which we have agreed, in that big booming voice of yours. Margaret, sit close to me ready for any special thing I may want you to do."

Intruder Warned

Nobody spoke in answer, and we took our stations as he had directed. And then Harry Underwood took up the speaking tube and spoke into it with a bellow which almost shook the room.

"Yo-ho, you up in the attic," he said, and repeated the cry three times. "Listen carefully if you value your life. In another minute or two, tear gas is coming into every window of the attic. It won't be strong enough to kill you, but it will surely put you out of business if you don't follow directions. You are to come now to this speaking tube"—he gave careful directions for its location—"and say 'all right' if you are going to obey directions, which you'd better do. Then mark the location of the staircase. Don't open the door leading to it until I call to you to open it. But you'd better get near it, for you won't be able to find it after the tear gas starts. And when you come down the stairs, don't try any shooting, for we'll have you covered and we can see you, while you won't be able to see anything for a while. Now I'm going to count to one hundred slowly, and if you aren't yelling 'all right' into that tube at the hundredth count, it's just going to be too bad for you."

Breathless Moment

He turned away from the speaking tube, and began to count as casually, as imperturbably as if he were checking off eggs or vegetables. But at the hundredth count there was no answering voice, and though the delayed action for several seconds while we breathlessly waited a decision, we heard no sound from the tube.

"Determined to bluff to the last," Harry said at last. "But I'll bet they are near the top of the stairs just about now."

"Nobody will take your wager," his wife told him, and then my father gave the word for action.

"That attic door is locked?" he asked. "Where is the key?"

Tearful Attack

"Please give it to your husband," my father said, and Lillian passed it over.

"Now, if you'll take your place," my father said to Harry, "and Lillian will blow that whistle, we probably will get action."

Harry took up his position in the hall outside the attic door, with his mouth and nose covered with a thick cloth. Lillian blew the whistle, and then retreated to my room, as my father had commanded. And then there was a rush of footsteps, Dicky's, up the stairs from the hall below to Harry's side, while from the attic came the sound of breaking window glass. For a second there was no further sound, and then there came from the attic stairs terrible choking sounds and the tumbling of bodies down the narrow space and the pounding of fists on the door.

STEEL POLE GUARDS STATION SUCCESSFULLY

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE April 2—It worked

John Merritt proprietor of a lunch stand and filling station at the corner of Elwood avenue and route 31 at the edge of this city is beaming with pride today because a steel pole he erected has fulfilled its purpose

Mr Merritt has his filling station on a corner and cars coming into Marysville from Kenton failing to make the curve crash into his station [illegible] down gaso line pump and damaging his lunch stand Finally he decided to erect a large steel pole at the corner of the pumps to protect the pumps

About a month ago a car failing to make the curve missed the pole and knocked down two gasoline pumps which chagrined Mr Merritt no little and he thought his idea was not so good But yesterday morning a car load of Toledo people started around the curve missed and crashed into the pole demolishing their auto The motorists suffered cuts and bruises but did not knock down a single gasoline pump

Twelve times cars have failed to make the curve and have crashed into the filling station One time a car went through the pumps knocking down three of them and then crashed into the lunch stand where the car lodged itself half in and half out of the stand

Who Started the War?

THE imagination of German leaders, [illegible] is at its best in the field of military exploits, at its worst in public relations and diplomacy.

The Nazi regime wants the United States to believe two things: That war guilt rests on the allies and that this government is morally if not actually one of the guilty parties.

To this end it has released [illegible] documents implicating Great Britain, France and the United States in the making of the war. It is an interesting experiment in [illegible] public opinion.

It does not promise, however, to be a success [illegible] outside of Germany. German statesmen can imagine world power and reach for it but [illegible] imagine the breadth and depth of [illegible] and [illegible] outside Germany. The same mistake committed in the World war is being repeated. Failure to understand why Germany's neighbors do not think as Germans are taught to think.

As to war guilt there is the inescapable fact that the allies were not prepared to fight the war, that their preparation was not begun till after the military intentions of the [illegible] became too plain to be disregarded, and that even now, seven months after the opening of hostilities the allied objective is to develop a defense capable of withstanding Germany's previously developed power of attack. War became inevitable when Germany made plain its intention of not stopping short of war—when it invaded Poland. To say that the allies started it is to say that they were the first to resort to violence, which is absurd. It is recalled in this connection that Germany claimed the allies started the last war and that it invaded Belgium only to keep France from attacking Germany first.

As to the allegations against the United States, particularly against conversations by William Bullitt, ambassador to Paris, with various European statesmen, the Nazis have missed a vital point. No matter what Mr. Bullitt or anyone else said, the United States cannot be committed to any decision, except by act of congress.

There is no voice of thunder here that makes [illegible] quake. A few days ago when a freshman diplomat in Canada stated that the United States favored the allies against Germany even those who agreed with him helped to box his ears. The Germans must have failed to understand why this happened. They cannot understand that no one man speaking for the United States, up to and including the head man, shouldn't be taken literally.

Perhaps Germany's leadership will be able to pin war guilt on the allies and throw mud [illegible] the United States. The prospect is not too [illegible] The "[illegible]" is the [illegible] to [illegible] the other side of the page.

Propaganda Probe

IF THE senate foreign relations committee's unanimous approval is an indication, the United States soon will have a foreign propaganda probe running in competition with the Dies committee hunt for un-American activities.

First thing the probers would need to discover is a definition for propaganda so they'd know what to look for. Presumably the field would be narrowed right off the bat by eliminating good propaganda, which is what you tell the other fellow, and concentrating on bad propaganda, which is what he tells you.

Bad propaganda, plainly, is propaganda that makes people think something that's bad for them. For instance, it's bad for some Americans to think Great Britain is an empire because they don't like empires and it prejudices them against the allies. On the other hand, it's also bad for Americans to admire the British empire because it makes them want to help defend it, and that's not natural. In much the same way it's bad for some Americans to think the allies are going to win the war because it dulls their perception of danger, while others believing Germany may win are inclined to despair of seeing international security again in their lifetimes.

If foreign propaganda probers could find a way to distinguish between propaganda and the effects of propaganda they'd have one of the biggest things since [illegible]

F S A Helps Ohio Farmers

Agency Points to Good Record of State Loans.

By EARL BERKLEY

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 2 — The farm security administration, set up to put poor farmers on their feet, reports its program a real success in Ohio.

Accounting for its business activities, the agency described itself as "proud" that FSA borrowers "not only have increased their net worth and annual income but also are making satisfactory progress in the repayment of their loans."

Rehabilitation borrowers in the state numbered 22,[illegible] at the time of a recent survey. Before these farmers went to FSA for help their average net income was $[illegible]. Last year it averaged $[illegible].

"Moreover," the report said, "these families increased their average net worth — over and above all debts — from $1,[illegible] before they came into the FSA program to $[illegible] at the end of the 1938 crop year, a gain of [illegible] per cent."

This means that the families added $[illegible] to the wealth of their communities and increased their annual incomes by a total of $[illegible], the agency said, adding:

"This expanding purchasing power has, of course, been a considerable benefit to the merchants and other businessmen of the state.

Borrowers Repaying

"At the same time the borrowers already have repaid $[illegible] into the federal treasury as installments on loans totaling $[illegible]. The typical rehabilitation family in Ohio has borrowed $[illegible] and already has repaid $[illegible].

"[illegible] of the money loaned does not fall due for [illegible] years, [illegible] to expect that the great bulk of it will be repaid.

"We feel that this collection record is particularly significant because, according to normal business standards, our borrowers would certainly not be considered good credit risks. Rehabilitation loans are made only to families which can not get adequate credit elsewhere and nearly all of them either had been on relief or were approaching the relief level."

This program, taking the place of direct relief in rural areas, is designed to help needy farm families to become permanently self-supporting.

Besides making loans, the administration gives advice and guidance in sound farming methods to make sure that the money is put to good use.

Sometimes the agency offers grants as well as loans in order to get the borrowers off to a sound start. The grants usually are just enough to tide the family over until the next crop.

Old Debts Adjusted

"This service is available to all farmers, whether or not they are rehabilitation borrowers," the report said. "Altogether debts [illegible] to $[illegible] have been negotiated for the farmers in Ohio. This represents a scale-down of [illegible] per cent. As a direct result of these adjustments, $[illegible] in back taxes has been paid to local government agencies.

"In helping borrowers to plan their farm operations, we always urge them to get away from one-crop farming, and to raise as much as possible of their food and feed supplies. The progress they are making is indicated by the fact that the Ohio borrowers produced $[illegible] worth of foods for home consumption last year, as compared with only $[illegible] the year before they came into the FSA program."

Another objective of FSA is to help tenants get more secure land tenure arrangements so they can plan ahead for crop rotations, soil conservation and other good farming practices. In Ohio [illegible] tenants have obtained written leases in place of verbal agreements.

"There are [illegible] families in Ohio which are eligible and in need of rehabilitation loans, but have been unable to get them because

Our Old Man

Laying Up in Bed Good for a Man Sometimes, He Always Said.

By DAMON RUNYON

OUR old man said it sometimes did a man good to be laid up a while by illness, always [illegible] it was not fatal or permanently [illegible]. He said it gave him [illegible] the opportunity of doing a lot of thinking and of getting a different view of many subjects. He said a long stretch of lying in bed showed a man that things he thought were of vital importance did not matter so much after all.

He said at times that the same general effect as the system [illegible] had been about was supposed to have employed [illegible] many [illegible] problems. The old boy would [illegible] correspondence and [illegible] and other documents [illegible] for several months. By that time [illegible] the correspondence [illegible]

Damon Runyon

Our old man said he knew nothing that gave a man a better line on his own weight in the world than a spell of illness. He said many a man who thought he was indispensable in his job [illegible] when he was knocked out by sickness that [illegible] went along [illegible] about the same as usual—maybe a little better than usual.

He said a few weeks of [illegible] confinement generally showed a man he was not essential to the world no matter what his job. He said after the first anxious inquiries and cheering messages and perhaps flowers, the man found life was proceeding in the world outside his sickroom without missing a beat and that even in his own household things had settled down after a brief upset.

OUR old man said this was a painful disillusionment to a man who had an idea his little world revolved exclusively about him. He said it was a surprise and a shock to learn in illness that laughter continued and gay music was not stilled.

Our old man said personally he would not have it any different, but he supposed he had become more philosophical through experience about these matters than the average man. He said he had weathered several protracted spells of illness in his lifetime and had learned he was important only in proportion to his ability to be on his job.

He said he thought he was all the better for his illnesses, morally, if not physically, because he usually came out of them with his cranium deflated and his spirit chastened. He said he generally returned to his work with greater energy than before, with determination to prove his value and that thus his productiveness was increased for a time.

HE SAID he generally had a kindlier feeling toward his fellow citizens, too, including those he knew had been viewing his illness from the standpoint of possible self-advancement. Our old man said he never felt bitter toward a pal who had probably been figuring his illness might open the way to the pal's promotion.

Our old man said that was just human nature and you could not change human nature. He said he remembered with shame that he once felt a vague glow on hearing of the illness of a man whose passing would leave a vacancy that he would almost surely be called on to fill.

He hadn't even blamed a man in whose path he stood who came to his bedside when he was ill and spoke words of sympathy with a gleam of anticipation in his eyes.

Our old man said he realized it was possible for a fellow citizen to feel truly sorry for him in his illness and yet at the same time be considering the eventualities from a personal standpoint. He said he was quite sure no man ever hoped for the worst for him, but just felt that if the worst was bound to happen there was no harm in looking at the possibilities of the situation. Our old man said this was not ghoulishness at all, just human nature.

HE SAID he had found illness a great time in which to reflect on his mistakes. He said he could always see quite clearly, when stretched out on his back, his errors of omission and commission. He said it was then that he most keenly regretted the hours he had wasted, the things he had said, the friends he had neglected.

He said he had never failed in illness to resolve that if permitted to escape from his bed of pain he would straighten out his whole life. This resolution lasted until he could again take a firm step. Then our old man said he found he was just the same as before his illness. He said he guessed he had the same trouble as the devil as recounted in an ancient rhyme:

"When the devil was sick
The devil a monk would be;
When the devil was well
The devil a monk was he!"

Anecdotes of Ohio

By THOMAS W. MADDOX

Ohio was a pioneer state in recognizing a public duty to society's unfortunate—the insane and the feeble-minded.

The Columbus State Hospital for the Insane was founded by legislative enactment in 1835 followed by the establishment of similar institutions throughout the state. Drs. William M. Awl and Marmaduke Wright, both legislators, gave the movement its impetus.

Disaster marked the project's advance, however, Nov. 18, 1868, when the Columbus hospital burned. Six of the 314 patients died in the night-time holocaust.

While the institution was being rebuilt the demented patients were cared for in similar hospitals at Cleveland, Dayton and Cincinnati. Later the Columbus institution was expanded and modernized to meet growing demands upon its facilities.

One wonders however whether the fuehrer's ideas have been changed any by the sudden coolness of his friends Stalin and Mussolini Soviet Premier Molotoff Saturday announced that Russia is going to remain neutral And a high quarter in Rome said that the triple entente which Hitler hoped to effect—Germany Russia and Italy—isn't a possibility at this time

Time is running against Germany for the blockade already has been damaging Hitler must either repair that damage quickly or [illegible] with his fighting arm Probably he feels that he can afford to gamble a bit longer on the chance of improving his position in the Balkans and through Russia

It seems to me however that the moment the probability develops in his mind that he is going to be beaten in the economic struggle he is bound to lash out with his military weapons to try to save himself Then may come the blood bath Berlin has been threatening

Allied Strategy

The allies for the moment are concentrating on three weaknesses in their economic blockade

1 The continued shipment of iron ore from Sweden to Germany thereby providing the reich with a military necessity without which the Nazi armaments industry would be crippled

2 The Balkans upon which Hitler has been banking greatly for supplies especially Rumanian oil A battle royal is proceeding here —allied gold versus German barter trade

3 The resale to Germany by neighboring neutrals of goods and raw materials purchased in America There is much agitation in England and France to rigid rationing of Germany's neutral neighbors but it is a mighty delicate subject and no formal move has yet been made although ships carrying contraband have of course been detained

Lewis' Third Party and Primary Hold Spotlight Today

By The Associated Press

The Wisconsin presidential primary [illegible] John L Lewis's threat to organize a third party movement unless the Democrats choose a candidate and platform acceptable to labor and the common people

[illegible] parties selected [illegible] delegates to the national conventions the Democrats [illegible] offered the first test of sentiment between President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner The issue was not as clear cut as it might be however because there were two [illegible] Roosevelt slates in the field against the one Garner ticket

While politicians watched to see which way the political straws would blow in the Wisconsin winds they speculated over John L Lewis's statement yesterday at Morgantown W Va that he would summon labor youth old age Negro and farmers organizations to a convention of his own in the event that the Democrats failed to meet the conditions he laid down for action at their convention

The C I O leader's speech produced some stir in Washington but prominent Democrats were inclined to discount its importance Some spoke of it as a trial balloon Lewis already possesses the framework of a national political organization in labor's non partisan league which he heads

Taft Enters No 1

Elsewhere the political news included New York's primary today for the selection of convention delegates the entry of the name of Senator Taft (R Ohio) in New Jersey where Dewey already has filed a municipal election in Kansas City which may produce political sign posts and a hint from James Cromwell minister to Canada that he may run for the Democratic senatorial nomination in New Jersey

The filing of Taft's name by petitions in New Jersey an hour before the midnight deadline last night did not assure a direct test of strength with Dewey Taft has not permitted his name to be entered against Dewey's thus far in any state and it would be possible for him to withdraw in New Jersey before the May 21 primary

Marion city and county relief food allowances will be reduced by eight per cent effective May 1, Frank S Burns city county relief director announced today following conferences with municipal and county officials

The reduction cancels a similar increase made Dec 1 At that time both subdivisions had a comfortable balance in their relief funds, but now both are experiencing financial difficulties

County commissioners issued the statement that they feel rural employment should be opening up May 1 and that the county should take advantage of the seasonal uplift to conserve its meager relief funds

New rulings governing relief, to be effective May 1, include

No single employable male under 40 years of age shall be eligible for relief

No employable case shall be accepted for relief until certification of eligibility for WPA is completed

Applications for relief shall be approved by the director before relief can be granted. This applies not only to food, but also to medical care and fuel,

No clients will be awarded relief for rent or shelter, except in cases of dire emergency.

Overshadowing all popular quiz games of the moment the census had legally the one central purpose of finding out exactly how many Americans there were so that the states could be allotted their fair share of the seats in the house of representatives The authors of the constitution planned it that way and the nose-counting has been done every 10 years

But officials looked for other information which may influence the nation's legislative and social outlook for years to come

The enumerators were ordered not only to count the population but to find out how many were unemployed how many were earning just a little how many people live in tourist camps how many have migrated in flight from dust or hard times in the last five years how many own their own homes what crops they raise what sanitary and electrical facilities they have and a multitude of other questions

Supt. Hudson Reviews His Record

five years of his administration were listed as follows:

Renovation of the buildings; improvement of artificial lighting facilities at six buildings, "important since it is so necessary to maintain good lighting conditions in order that children's eyesight may be conserved;" development of recreational facilities, including the stadium for athletic contests; creating of the administration building which, "with crowded conditions at Harding High school was an absolute necessity;" an eyesight survey by the state commission for the blind with the sight-saving class now at George Washington school as the final outcome; restoration of art supervision in the elementary and junior high schools "with practically no additional cost to the board;" complete and adequate supervision of the instrumental music program; perfecting of a plan of testing and surveying all sixth grade pupils as an aid to junior high school principals in classifying the pupils for instruction; advance of the guidance rograms; establishment of the plan of a "visiting teacher" (now Cecil Gabler, successor to Miss Grace Colvin) not only for service in connection with attendance but to help care for maladjusted and delinquent pupils; adoption of a reading readiness program in the first grade; adhering to a conservative financial program which resulted in a balance in the treasury; establishment of incentives to teachers to get additional training; the occupational survey made by Mr. Gabler; development of new outlines of curricular material for grades one and two.

For Future Study

Listed for future consideration were: An improved health and physical education program; reorganization of the high school program; improvement of high school facilities; need for a wider guidance program and the introduction of an organized placement service for pupils leaving schools; more adequate training for teachers; a definite salary schedule "bringing about a better morale." (Salary increases were voted last June.)

A year ago, when the summary was made, Mr. Hudson recognized the board's share in the accomplishments as follows:

"All of this could be done only with your cooperation. To me it looms as something quite significant, and therefore I feel you should be given credit for your part in supporting the administration in order that these improvements might be brought about."

In presenting the summary, he wrote:

"All organizations, including schools, to be successful should periodically take an inventory of the progress made, and also determine in a general way the program to be followed in the future. Since five years will soon have been completed under the present administration it seems appropriate to review the accomplishments of that period. It would also seem wise to point out some of the things that are yet to be done, thus indicating the trend that the future program should take."

"I ask you," Mr. Hudson said, "after careful consideration of this summary, whether it looks as though the superintendent who has been here has not gone to work?

"This is said," he went on, "not heatedly but in defense of what was published after the last meeting. I am making no apologies. I am sorry to take the board's time but I believe there is a time when forbearance ceases to be a virtue."

When he finished the room was quiet except for the shuffling of the summary sheets.

Superintendent Hudson went on "I have tried to work for one thing—the boys and girls.

"School people have spent their lives training for their work. A board must some times use the judgment of those specifically trained in school work."

Stating that in some instances statements had been "misleading the public," Mr. Hudson said: "For that reason I came to my defense. The public has a right to know some of the things that have been done for the boys and girls."

Against Two Schools

Speaking of the future, Mr. Hudson said "I know of two things which will be proposed for Marion. One thing is two high schools, which I talk and argue against. The city is too small and two high schools would duplicate costs and increase operating expenses. I don't think it is the thing for Marion." He did not mention the second proposal, saying, "I won't mention the other at this time."

Herman E. Powelson, 28, temporarily living at Agosta and an employe of Old Fort Mills, Inc., until the recent fire, was hired as custodian at the Vernon Heights Junior High school for the balance of the school year. Mr. Powelson, a licensed fireman, will succeed S. C. Baker, a substitute custodian.

Of three bids submitted for blinds at the Oakland Heights building, the low bid of $194.30 by John Jenner, was accepted. The other two were for $199.16 and $200. Bills totaling $2,819.84 were approved.

The board recommended plumbing surveys made at the Silver Street, Greenwood and Forest Lawn schools, estimates and figures to be presented before vacation time, and also authorized construction of shelving for storage of school books at Central Junior High school. Superintendent Hudson said the lumber would cost approximately $51 and that the work would be done during spring vacation this week by John E. Beer, manual arts instructor.

The board gave its consent to use of the Harding stadium for a Sunday morning service at the state Knights of Columbus convention here on May 19, following a recommendation from Mr. Hudson that the courtesy be extended.

Clerk Torrance announced that the National City bank, one of the school depositories, had replaced $10,000 of City of Philadelphia bonds which were due with $5,000 Milton, O., rural school bonds and $7,000 City of Zanesville bonds.

MIDDLETOWN, O., April 2 — Products manufactured in the United States excel those made in foreign lands because of competitive private enterprise, Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mills Co., told members of the association of iron and steel engineers before they visited the company plant here today.

Declaring conditions also "best for the worker," Hook said: "employes of manufacturing plants in America can buy more for their hourly wages than can the workers in other parts of the world."

The information was obtained in a world survey by the National Association of Manufacturers, Hook asserted.

He praised the organization, which opened a two-day spring meeting yesterday in Cincinnati, for its "exchange of ideas," contrary to an early practice of workers and firms in jealously guarding their improvements.

All members of the voiture will be expected to attend, officers announced. Appointment of a committee to promote spring sports events will be made later, it was announced.

MARKET FAILS TO MOVE FAR

Aviation, Steel and Specialties, Alone, Show Much Activity Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 2 — Aside from strength exhibited by aviations, a few steels and specialties, the stock market today generally failed to get very far either way.

Steels moved up at the opening, slipped, then again revived. Dealings were slow from the start and prices slightly mixed near the fourth hour.

Mild improvement appeared in the bond department, while commodities moved over a slim groove. European securities markets were steady to higher. The "free" British pound sterling retrieved more of its recent losses in terms of the dollar.

Posting new highs for the year or longer, with advances of fractions to around 3 points, were American Airlines, Pan American Airways, Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, Dow Chemical and White Rock. Given a lift were Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Loew's, International Paper, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel.

Aircraft manufacturing stocks benefitted by the thought that, while a wide assortment of American exports may be lopped off by belligerents as an economy war measure, demand for fighting planes is likely to attain large proportions if the conflict widens.

As in the past week or so, air liner shares were bolstered by predictions on climbing profits for the carriers as passenger traffic reaches record levels in the next several months.

On the side of steels was this week's unexpected increase in production schedules. Heartening, too, were reports of growing orders for structural steel.

SELLING DEPRESSES WHEAT PRICE TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 2—Pressure of selling as grain dealers placed hedges against abnormally large supplies of wheat coming to market at this time of year depressed wheat prices today.

The market attempted to extend yesterday's gains with an early upturn of as much as ⅝ cent based on pessimistic crop and weather conditions but fell back before the close and registered small net losses for the day. Many grain dealers who absorbed terminal market receipts, much of which was wheat which has been stored under government loans, were forced to place hedges in the futures market to protect themselves in case of reduced prices during their ownership of the commodity.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, April 3

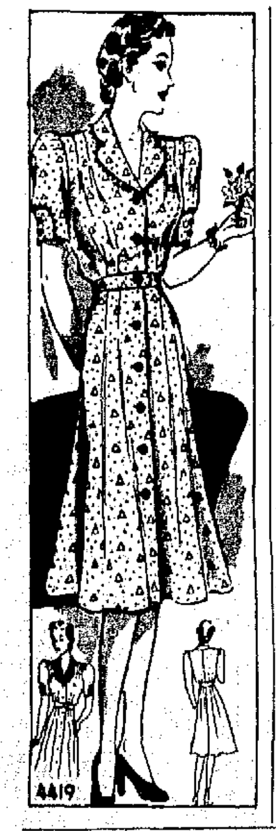
A rather perplexing and contradictory state of affairs may be read from this day's planetary configurations. In an attempt to break up some static or long-crystallized conditions there may be much strenuous effort brought to bear on knotty problems or peculiar frustrations. The mental outlook may be shrewd enough, but a propensity to attack difficulties by main force, impetuosity or rash tactics may complicate matters. The interference of strangers as well as friends should be considered with due caution. Help from unexpected sources may benefit and writings, contracts or correspondence may be winning factors.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which there may be difficult or con*flicting situations to handle.* These had best be attempted by naturally clever and intellectual processes rather than impetuous and reckless emotional stresses or turbulence. There may be novel or surprising developments in which both friends and strange influences must be met with calmness, sagacity and the use of writ*ings, documents or correspondence*. The solution to difficult problems may come through intervention from high places.

A child born on this day may be versatile, with fine intellect, studious, profound and industrious. It may have some original creative talent, in expressing which there may be a singular conflict or opposition. Support may come from surprising and influential sources.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

By ANNE ADAMS



A BUTTON-FRONT SHIRTWAISTER

Button-fronts are always at the fashion-front—they're so smart, youthful and convenient. Anne Adams uses this feature so effectively in Pattern 4419, a slenderizing and useful cotton frock. You can stitch it up in one...two...three, with the Sewing Instructor's helpful guidance. Waistline darts eliminate any time-taking seams and give both smooth fit and splendid skirt fulness. The shirtwaist collar has softly rounded revers which you might like in contrast, with the optional tabs on the short-sleeve style matching. Or perhaps you'd prefer a gay outline of ric-rac. An easy-to-wear, easy-to-make frock—order your pattern today.

Pattern 4419 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4⅝ yards 35 inch fabric and 1¾ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.
